WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO DOCUMENT & DEMONSTRATE VALUE?

Suppliers to the automotive, commercial vehicle, and heavy truck industries face a challenging sales environment. Customers are more demanding; pricing pressure is increasing, and margins are contracting. Many suppliers have responded by emphasizing the value they offer to customers, but most find it hard to resist customers' demands for lower prices.

To gain an equitable or fair return on the value their offerings deliver, and thereby be in a position to defend price, suppliers must be able to persuasively demonstrate and document the value they offer in monetary terms. Simply put, suppliers must learn to translate everything they offer customers into the language of dollars & cents.

Documenting and demonstrating value is both challenging and rewarding. It is challenging because it involves quantifying benefit claims you want to make - claims that can touch on complex business processes. But it is rewarding for the same reason. Meeting the challenges that come with quantifying and documenting value will give you a powerful competitive advantage over your rivals, as well as allow your company to defend and improve your price and bottom line.

That's why Kotler Marketing Group has developed a first-of-its-kind workshop program, developed specifically to help suppliers to understand the challenges of building a quantitative business case and how to systematically overcome them. Ample time is spent working with participants to document the value of their specific offerings.

Common Sales Challenges Addressed By The Workshop

- Understanding what value is and how to quantify and measure it
- Building spreadsheet-based sales tools and models
- Getting customer cooperation and buy-in
- Using value research to strengthen and reinforce customer relationships
- Avoiding exaggerated claims that undermine the credibility of your value case
- Effectively incorporating value analyses and findings into presentations, bids and proposals

Understand How to Quantify the Value of Benefits That Suppliers Typically Promote, Such as:

- Improving R&D cycle times
- Reducing the cost of warranty claims
- Reducing downtime
- Improving productivity
- Reducing materials costs
- Improving quality and performance

The Presenter

The workshops are facilitated by the following instructor:

Steve Rose leads the Automotive and Heavy Duty practice. He is a sales and marketing practitioner with over 25 years of professional experience. Steve spent the majority of his professional career at Michelin Tire. While at Michelin, Steve held leadership positions in sales and marketing, with P&L responsibility, in a number of divisions, including Passenger, Truck and Earthmover. While serving as the VP for Sales & Marketing in North American and Asia, Steve led the implementation of a formal value-based sales and marketing approach in both the Truck and Earthmover divisions. Under Steve's leadership, Michelin's Truck and Earthmover divisions routinely exceeded plan and remain market share leaders worldwide.

Having spent the majority of his career in the Automotive industry, Steve understands how difficult a sales environment it can be. However, he has worked with many progressive suppliers that have had success defending, and in some cases, improving their pricing and bottom lines. In this workshop, Steve will cover many of these "success stories" and will explain precisely how these suppliers have been able to resist demands for lower prices and cost-downs.
